

Essay / Research Essay / Literary Analysis

Reflections on Poetry of Trauma and Resistance
Charles Ades Fishman, Volume 1, p.7

Storytelling and Reading Aloud: Teaching Through the Oral Tradition
Penninah Schram, Volume 1, p.25

My Mother, My Art: Reflections from a Child of Survivors
Mina Cohen, Volume 1, p.33

Arts Education after Auschwitz: Students, Survivors, and Storytelling in the U.S. Premiere of "Witness Theater"
Caren Schnur Neile, Volume 1, p.38

Reflections of Children in Holocaust Art
Pnina Rosenberg, Volume 1, p.42

Three Approaches to Exploring the Höcker Album in the High School and University
Classes
Judith Cohen, Rebecca Erbelding, and Joseph Robert White, Volume 1, p.53

The Holocaust Museum as an Extension of the Classroom (unavailable online)
Brana Gurewitsch, Volume 1, p.64

The Necessity of Darkness: The Pedagogic Benefit of Teaching the Horrors of the Camps
Joshua Levy, Volume 1, p.70

Point: The Obligation to Teach the Light
Emily Amie Witty, Volume 1, p.73

Counterpoint
Joshua Levy, Volume 1, p.76

Building Resilience for Holocaust Educators
Naomi L. Baum, Batya Rotter, and Estie Reidler, Volume 1, p.81

Through the Dead of Night: Lessons in Trauma and Resiliency from Child Survivors of the Shoah
Ray Walpow, Volume 1, p.89

When There Are No Orders to Follow: Albert Halper's "Prelude" and Antisemitism in America
Aden Bar-Tura, Volume 2, p.15

Moving Our Students Along the Continuum of Benevolence
Emily Amie Witty, Volume 2, p.19

The Evian Conference: A Political Potemkin Village
Carson Phillips, Volume 2, p.25

Judging the Bystander With a Measure of Humility
Menachem Z. Rosensaft, Volume 2, p.33

Willy Fick: The Metaphoric Language & Art of Dissent
Carson Phillips, Volume 2, p.39

The Problem of the Bystander and Elementary School Teachers Under the Third Reich
Gregory Paul Wegner, Volume 2, p.42

Reflections on Bystanders: A Pedagogic Paradox
Rochelle L. Millen, Volume 2, p.51

Bella Rubin, Volume 9, pg. 44

Second Survivor

Ellen R. Singer, Volume 9, pg. 51

Discovering the Holocaust: A Memoir

Jennifer Robertson, Volume 9, pg. 59

Not Since I Left Dagda

Willie Balk, Volume 9, pg. 89

Nancy Patz and the Topography of Pain and Memory

Pnina Rosenberg, Volume 10, pg. 34